

Soliloquy Loudspeaker Company

Thank you for your purchase of Soliloquy products.

We build every Soliloquy model by hand and take great pride in providing the highest level of quality and craftsmanship to you, our customers.

Please take time to inspect the enclosed documents as they will help you unpack, properly set up and use these products.

The first document will help you unpack your new speakers without incurring damage and give you instructions on how to file a freight claim if you discover any concealed damage.

The second document will help you properly place your speakers in the room for optimum performance.

The remaining documents will help you understand some of the unique construction and technologies employed in our products.

Lastly, please remember that these speakers will require what is known as "break-in time" This refers to the amount of hours the speaker must play before it reaches optimum operating levels. We recommend a minimum of 300 hours of "break-in". This practice insures that the speakers "warm up" and image properly.

We would also recommend using the enclosed spikes to maximize bass performance and if you choose to use a single speaker wire connection instead of the bi-wire connection, please connect the wire to the lower terminals and replace the brass jumpers (supplied) with a short length of speaker wire, as this will further enhance performance.

Thank You!
